"HOLIDAY" IS SCHEDULED TO START TODAY

Councils of Defense Are Organized in Twenty States Affected

By ROY PORTER

Associated Press Writer
DES MOINES, Iowa, Oct. 21.—The National Farmers' Farm Holiday called for now, today, will be a major, Miss Rose, leader of the Holiday Association, said today.

"Some of the boys," he said, "are rock- ing the boat" by holding widely divergent opinions from persons who say they are Hitlerites, Communists, or some of them are. The Holiday Association is behind the national strike wholeheartedly."

DES MOINES, Iowa, Oct. 21.—Milo Rabe, president of the National Farm Holiday Association, last night urged the United States farm strike to start today. "Today is the day when the price of revolution" for low farm prices will be paid.

The Holiday Association said it might be necessary to start a general and urged farmers to "a supreme effort to obtain their rights without trouble."

Demand Presidential Import Embargo

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 21.—An appeal to Washington for a presidential import embargo on all raw farm and manufactured foods products last night was sent by H. C. Parsons, president of the Nebraska Farm Holiday Association president.

The farm strike was withdrawn as state leaders issued a call to farmers to organize "councils of defense" in their states.

The United States farm strike set to start today at noon, effective.

FIREMEN WANT BROKEN TOYS

City firemen, who work every summer and even winter, repairing old and broken toys for distribution among the children of the needy, have found themselves in the spot where they must now take fire calls. The supply of old toys has run out and the chairman of the Chief Albert Dutton has turned out several hundred rebuilt and repaired toys to meet the demand.

Now the boys are in urgent need of old toys, to which the shop running and Mr. and Mrs. Edington are hereby asked to fill the need.

Nothing is too old or dilapidated or beyond repair, to be accepted.

In past years the firemen have turned out nice "jobs" on every kind of toy, and are anxious to repeat this year. They are on schedule and need help.

There's no work to it for those who want to join the firemen and tell them to drop in to call around at your address to pick up the old toy.

Between five and six thousand persons depend on fishing for their livelihood in Hull, England's greatest fishing port.

Senate Committee Hear Marketing Methods for "Steady"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21—How a bank can profitably buy bank stock to keep the market steady was the subject of a hearing yesterday in the Senate banking committee.

Albert H. Wiggin, former head of the First National Bank, under questioning by Federal Peoria, committee, said:

selected it as "a common practice" in continuing buying power was necessary to hold prices stable.

Before resuming the questioning of Wiggin, the committee decided to send each member of the New York Stock Exchange a copy of the bank pool and trading operations which the Exchange Governing Board decided to keep secret.

In the course of Wiggin's testimony, the banker, now retired as President of the Chase National Bank, affidavit before the Senate banking committee, that he had a trading account engaged in by the First National Corporation, an affiliate of the bank.

Wiggin said he had traded in $10,000,000 of the stock of the bank and its affiliate, when he was on the board in July, 1930, with 38,400 shares on hand.

The star Arcturus, a ray of light from which was used to light the Fair at Chicago, is 11 million times as far away from the earth than the sun.

Speaking on the outlook for the economy, the banker said that it was in many respects favorable, but he was not too optimistic, as far as the population development was concerned.

Wiggin said: "The First National is in the process of organizing a better understanding committee." This, he said, was an opportunity for service by the press.

NOT TOO OPTIMISTIC

Speaking on the outlook for the economy, the banker said that it was in many respects favorable, but he was not too optimistic, as far as the population development was concerned.

Through being able to take advantage of the market moment, by refunding short term obligations and long term agreements, the government can maintain a liquid position to deal with unemployment and other problems. The banks are also strong, he said.

Year of a run has passed, so they do not have to be concerned about a run.

The sticks were propped up nice and straight. "Gee, it's beginning to look a great deal like a wigwam," the Indians said.

"Now, let's wash dishes," Goldy cried. "Don't anybody run and hide. We each will wash our own bowl. Then we'll have some fun at play."

"What is the dish pail?" Bring it out, Goldy. "It's a great big red Indian shout," Goldy, "We wash dishes in the stream. We scrub them with sticks."

WHEAT PRICES, SHOW STRENGTH AT WEEK - END

WINNIPEG, Oct. 21.—Further speculative support was forthcoming on the grain exchange today, and this, coupled with current sales estimated at 500,000 bushels, caused wheat prices to strength for a substantial week-end. Speculative prices were 1½ to 2 cents over.

The finish was strong, with prices in many markets fractionally below the day's high. In the market, however, speculative buying was restricted to transfers from New York and Chicago markets.

October option ended the short-Sat- urday market at $1.15. November at $1.15, December at $1.15 and May option at 5½ cents.

Support thinned a little after mid-day, but the market held, nevertheless, the market held steady.

Chicago was firm, Liverpool re- treated slightly, and the market was even market yesterday. The English market closed 1½ to 1½ bushels higher. Buenos Aires was nearly a cent a bushel the closer.

Weather in Western Canada exerted a strong influence on the market.

Grain trading was dormant. Coarse grain operations were rather limited, but the market was in the main most of the day and following the close of wheat.

MONTREAL, Oct. 21.—The increased immigration is one of the outstanding needs of Canada today and that a carefully devised and intelligent program of immigration towards the admittance of dependent settlers would prove an important factor in the attainment of economic prosperity in this country was the theme of a statement made to the press by W. Major and Minor Notes In Musicland

The wide-spread interest aroused by John Murray Gibson's book, "The Boy's Own Guide to Music," has been illustrated by the competition in Gramo-Poems conducted by "The Boy's Own" in the "Major and Minor" publications in London, England. Mr. Gibson in his book, "The Boy's Own Guide to Music," gives a gramophone and a record, it was possible to find pleasant to the cadences of the music, thus producing a new type of lyric and musical composition. So much did Mr. Gibson's discovery find a place, that Tendy, now shall I sing my song?"

W. J. Hart, C.B.E., Christopher Smart, the author of "Gladys," came, as judges, and awarded the Overland prize of $100 to Gladys, 88 Osborne Ave., Toronto, for her poem, written to the music of "Song Pathetic." The "Song Pathetic" award paid Miss Kippen the compliment of saying "her work is quite worth recognition." Her gramophone-writer, Patheticque, was
